Questions to ask the Youth as the Activities are Reviewed

At the end of an Adventure, it is time for review. As part of the review, take time to consider which of the SPICES emerged when doing this Adventure.

- Social
- Physical
- Intellectual
- Character
- Emotional
- Spiritual

Here are some other thoughts about the SPICES as part of The Canadian Path.

- The Plan-Do-Review process focuses on the Six Program Areas. The planning is not done around the SPICES.

- While we don’t plan our Adventures around the SPICES, experiences that lend themselves to development in one or more of the SPICES will naturally emerge in each Adventure.

- The key is to remember that our goal in Scouting is the development of the whole person. Just keep that in mind throughout the Plan-Do-Review for Adventures and you’ll be surprised how you begin to notice the SPICES.

- Each youth’s development is a personal progression. Each Adventure may develop different or multiple SPICES in each youth. This is an organic process, not a planned process. As a Scouter, you are there to notice and help youth celebrate their milestones during their development.

- As you get to know the youth in your Section, you will begin to identify specific SPICES where each might need encouragement to grow. Then you can look for opportunities you can provide for that youth to explore that particular area. Example: Is there one youth who never wants to lead a game? Take time to get to know the youth and find out why. Maybe he or she is scared to speak in public (social), or not sure how to remember the instructions (intellectual) or feels awkward in the movements required in the game (physical). Once you have identified what SPICES the youth needs to develop, you can find smaller steps that will help them grow and ultimately help prepare the youth to take on leadership of the game.

- Remember it is all about personal progression. There are no set standards to reach in the SPICES. One youth may talk all the time and be very comfortable socially, while another youth who talks all the time may be covering up a great deal of anxiety about working in groups of people. You need to get to know the youth.

- The review process is the place where the SPICES are integrated. Reviewing should never feel formal. Instead, it should be a casual discussion where everyone’s input is welcome. Ask questions from the lists provided below that are appropriate to the individual youth and the Adventure will bring attention to the SPICES. You won’t need to use all of these questions every time you do review. Pick and choose the questions appropriate to the Adventure and feel free to re-word them or add your own questions. If the answer given is a short yes, no or maybe, invite the youth to tell you a story or give you an example to explain.

- The role of a Scouter is not to teach SPICES, but to maximize opportunities for growth and development of the youth as a whole. Scouters should notice when this growths happens and help the youth discover this personal growth. Youth and Scouters should keep SPICES in the back of their minds throughout the Plan-Do-Review of Adventures. Many will be surprised when they begin to notice the SPICES emerging throughout the Adventure.

* Six Program Areas: Environment and Outdoors, Leadership, Active and Healthy Living, Citizenship, Creative Expression and Beliefs and Values
- What did you learn about how you were involved in your community (Pack, friends, family, local, provincial, national, world)?
- What did you learn about how you worked in a team?
- How did you physically challenged?
- How did you grow stronger?
- How did you need to take care of your body or health in this Adventure?
- How did you use your brain to figure out something for this Adventure?
- What did you learn that you didn’t know before?
- Talk about any rules you had to follow. Why were they important?
- What did you learn about the people or places you needed to respect?
- How did you feel?
- What surprised you, frustrated you, delighted you or inspired you?
- What did you discover that you believe about yourself?
- What did you discover that others believe?
- How did you react to a situation when you weren’t sure what to do?
- How did you move out of your comfort zone?
- What did you discover that you believe about yourself?
- What did you discover that others believe?
- What decisions did you make?
- How did you teach someone else something?
- What decisions did you make?
- What did you learn about taking care of yourself?
- What did you do to be safe?
- What did you learn about how you, or someone else, acted as a leader or boss? What is the difference? How did that work out?
- How did you react to a situation when you weren’t sure what to do?
- How did you move out of your comfort zone?
- What new discoveries/new beliefs/codes of conduct did you create for yourself?
- What did you learn about how other people helped you?
- What did you learn about how someone's actions (or your own) surprised you?