

Good Turn Week

ELEPHANT TURF Citizenship

The Adventure:

Do you remember the Cub Scout Promise? The last line is a promise to “do a good turn for somebody every day.” When you get in the habit of doing good turns for others, it becomes second nature, and you might not even always realize it when you’ve done your good turn for the day.

Like the elephants of the jungle, we watch out for one another and help each other. As a Lair, take some time to think about the good turns everyone has done for your friends and family. Sit in a circle, and take turns sharing your good turns.

Use these ideas for inspiration, and come up with a project that you can do as a Lair or a Pack for Good Turn Week in the last week of April this spring!

Online Support:

- Good Turn Week
- Scout Messengers of Peace
- Scoutrees

Safety note:

Whatever project you come up with, take the time to think about what risks are involved and how you can stay safe. Share your plans with your Scouters and ask for their advice.

Plan:

- What project will your Lair or Pack take on for Good Turn Week?
- What tasks are involved? How will you divide them up?
- What will you need to make your good turn happen?
- How will you share your good turn with others?

Do:

- Do a special good turn to celebrate Good Turn Week!

Review:

- What do you know now that you did not know before?
- What challenges did you have to overcome to make your good turn happen?
- Who stood out as a good leader (or leaders) on your project? How did he/she/they inspire others in the group?
- How did you feel after completing your good turn?
- How did you share your good turn with others?

Canadianpath.ca

It starts with Scouts.