

Plan:

- What is your purpose for the website? What would you like to share?
- What skills do various members of your Patrol bring to creating a website?
- What skills do you need to learn to create the website? Who can help you learn those skills?
- What tasks need to be done to create the website? Who will do each task?

Do:

- Develop your website. Include your favourite stories, videos and photos!

Review:

- What do you know now that you did not know before?
- Did you have fun? Why or why not?
- How did you feel before, during, and after this project?
- What would you do differently in the future?
- How can you imagine your website evolving?

Safety note:

Don't share personal information (like your full names and addresses) online. If Scouts in your Troop don't want their pictures posted, be careful not to include them in any pictures or videos you use on your website.

Online Resources:

- Tumblr
- Check out the 23rd Nepean GeoHunters' website for some inspiration

Canadianpath.ca

Tell the World

The Adventure:

Does your Troop have a website? Has your Patrol contributed to it? Sharing your Adventures online is a great way to inspire other Troops. You'll probably even find that some Troops will reach out to your own, maybe even to get together and share an Adventure!

There are many sites and online tools that your Patrol can use to create a page for your Troop, whether you're creating a social media profile or building a page that has more of its own look. Your only limit is your Patrol's collective imagination!

S-01

It starts with Scouts.

Plan:

- What is your purpose for the website? What would you like to share?
- What skills do various members of your Patrol bring to creating a website?
- What skills do you need to learn to create the website? Who can help you learn those skills?
- What tasks need to be done to create the website? Who will do each task?

Do:

- Develop your website. Include your favourite stories, videos and photos!

Review:

- What do you know now that you did not know before?
- Did you have fun? Why or why not?
- How did you feel before, during, and after this project?
- What would you do differently in the future?
- How can you imagine your website evolving?

Safety note:

Don't share personal information (like your full names and addresses) online. If Scouts in your Troop don't want their pictures posted, be careful not to include them in any pictures or videos you use on your website.

Online Resources:

- Tumblr
- Check out the 23rd Nepean GeoHunters' website for some inspiration

Canadianpath.ca

Tell the World

The Adventure:

Does your Troop have a website? Has your Patrol contributed to it? Sharing your Adventures online is a great way to inspire other Troops. You'll probably even find that some Troops will reach out to your own, maybe even to get together and share an Adventure!

There are many sites and online tools that your Patrol can use to create a page for your Troop, whether you're creating a social media profile or building a page that has more of its own look. Your only limit is your Patrol's collective imagination!

S-01

It starts with Scouts.