

Plan:

- What would you like to redesign or rejuvenate? Whose permission do you need to have?
- What theme will the building or room have?
- How can you collaborate on a design? Will you sketch things out by hand, or is there software you can use?
- Are there experts you can consult for this project?
- What is your budget?
- What materials and tools do you need?

Do:

- Put your Company's stamp on your meeting hall or local Scout Camp.
- Share your project with others online.

Review:

- What do you know now that you did not know before?
- How did you feel before, during and after this adventure?
- What problems did you encounter, and how did you work as a team to overcome them?
- Imagine you're looking at your project for the first time. What do you think others will think of what you've done?
- What would you do differently in the future?

It starts with Scouts

Safety Note:

- What safety equipment and procedures do you need to be familiar with for the tools you're using?
- How can you stay safe when using paint or varnish?

Online Resources:

- 31st St. Cyprian Scout Troop has a clubhouse that's a national treasure
- Historic Scout Hall ruined by flood to be rebuilt

Interior Design

Creative Expression

The Adventure:

Show off your awesome taste and creativity by redesigning your meeting hall or Scout Camp! Many meeting halls and Scout Camps have interesting memorabilia scattered around: photos, crests, neckers, flags, signatures on beams, oddly shaped hunks of wood, unique rocks, turtle shells, antlers... These artifacts convey the fantastic Scouting history the place in question has, though reorganizing and rejuvenating a display might make the history more obvious and enjoyable.

Some places, however, are not quite as interesting. A brand new cabin at a Scout Camp, for example, probably doesn't have the character of a building that's been around for decades.

As an Expedition Team, add some colour and intrigue to the place where you meet or camp. You could paint a mural (don't forget about floors and ceilings!), hang things on walls, or contribute some fun furniture. Come up with a plan as a group, then have fun making your vision a reality!

Canadianpath.ca

Plan:

- What would you like to redesign or rejuvenate? Whose permission do you need to have?
- What theme will the building or room have?
- How can you collaborate on a design? Will you sketch things out by hand, or is there software you can use?
- Are there experts you can consult for this project?
- What is your budget?
- What materials and tools do you need?

Do:

- Put your Company's stamp on your meeting hall or local Scout Camp.
- Share your project with others online.

Review:

- What do you know now that you did not know before?
- How did you feel before, during and after this adventure?
- What problems did you encounter, and how did you work as a team to overcome them?
- Imagine you're looking at your project for the first time. What do you think others will think of what you've done?
- What would you do differently in the future?

It starts with Scouts

Safety Note:

- What safety equipment and procedures do you need to be familiar with for the tools you're using?
- How can you stay safe when using paint or varnish?

Online Resources:

- 31st St. Cyprian Scout Troop has a clubhouse that's a national treasure
- Historic Scout Hall ruined by flood to be rebuilt

Interior Design

Creative Expression

The Adventure:

Show off your awesome taste and creativity by redesigning your meeting hall or Scout Camp! Many meeting halls and Scout Camps have interesting memorabilia scattered around: photos, crests, neckers, flags, signatures on beams, oddly shaped hunks of wood, unique rocks, turtle shells, antlers... These artifacts convey the fantastic Scouting history the place in question has, though reorganizing and rejuvenating a display might make the history more obvious and enjoyable.

Some places, however, are not quite as interesting. A brand new cabin at a Scout Camp, for example, probably doesn't have the character of a building that's been around for decades.

As an Expedition Team, add some colour and intrigue to the place where you meet or camp. You could paint a mural (don't forget about floors and ceilings!), hang things on walls, or contribute some fun furniture. Come up with a plan as a group, then have fun making your vision a reality!

Canadianpath.ca

