The Adventure:
Make a burger with a bun, meat, pickles, lettuce, tomatoes, cheese and another bun—all in that order. Sounds easy, right? To make this more of a challenge, imagine the members of your team are the ingredients for your burger. Assign roles at random, and wear your roles on your backs so that people don’t know what ingredients they are. Limit the number of others you can talk to—you can only speak with two others. Now build your burger!

Plan:
• What strategy will you use? Try as many strategies as you’d like.

Do:
• Build your burger. Have fun!

Review:
• What do you know now that you did not know before?
• How did the team dynamics change based on a lack of leadership?
• How many different strategies did you try?
• What team roles did different people take on?

Online Resources:
Build a tower, build a team