What You Will Discover

Try your hand at a new skill.

The Adventure

Is there something you always wished you knew how to do? Play the ukulele? Crochet? On your own, with your Patrol or with your Section, why not take the time to learn a new skill? YouTube and other websites offer great tutorials, or you could ask people you know to see if someone could share their skill with you!

It starts with Scouts.

Plan

- Where will you learn more about your skill?
- What equipment will you need for your skill?
- What would you like to accomplish?

Do

#ScoutsDoStuff: Share your talents with the world—post a photo or video of your new skill!

Review

- What was the easiest part of learning your new skill? What was the hardest part?
- How will you continue to practise your skill?
- If you had to teach a skill to someone else, what would it be?

Safety Note

Are there any safety precautions that you need to take while learning your skill? How can you ensure that people learning your skill are safe too?

Try this

Keep it Simple

Learn a simple skill like sewing or cooking from someone in your household—then, use your skill to improve something in your house! Cook a meal for your family, repair a torn piece of clothing or sew crests on your campfire blanket!

Take it Further

As a Section, what skills do you have? Run a skill sharing or living library event where everyone teaches a skill, possibly over video chat! You can even publish a schedule of what skills are being taught at certain times so that people can tune in for the skills they want to know.
